

"BUILDING Our Future" Grand Challenge 2025 (Singapore Stage)

Many big and bustling metropolises like Hong Kong and Singapore are often described as a “concrete jungle” due to its high population density and intense urbanisation. Striking a balance between urban development and ecological conservation remains a considerable challenge. We invite students to unleash their creativity and harness technology to steer our society towards a sustainable future, with the aim of transforming international cities into ecological hotspots!

Think outside the box and explore a mutual gain between urban development and ecological conservation! Join our Grand Challenge and create compelling proposals that not only showcase a wise use of STEAM knowledge but also encourage cities to play an active role in meaningful community engagement with nature.
